One study.
One ethics review.
Faster trial activation across Canada.

CanReview
Canada's Single Research Ethics Review System

CanReview is a pan-Canadian collaboration enabling high-quality, efficient single research ethics reviews for multi-jurisdictional clinical trials and health research studies.

Co-developed with input from across Canada's clinical trials community, CanReview connects researchers and REBs across the country with a coordinated, streamlined system that works for all regions, safeguards quality, expands access to clinical trials and keeps patients at the centre.

A Canada-Wide System to Keep Trials Moving

- 28 days to Canada-wide REB decision; 5 days to add sites to a study
- Top quality reviews from trusted, fully compliant REBs
- Real-time visibility into review status, metrics and timelines
- Centralized support, coordination, and user training
- Standardized forms and templates; central repository
- Advancing Indigenous self-determination in research ethics review
- Single, auditable system with time-stamped records
- Flexible pathways to support regional differences
- Standard fees for industry-sponsored studies
- Fully bilingual system and services (French and English)
- Prioritize quality reviews with Stop the Clock and other measures
- Participant First Ethical Research Supports for institutions

CanReview

CanReview Ethics Review Workflow

With CanReview, there's one research ethics submission, one review process, leveraging one platform across Canada. A Principal Investigator (PI) submits a study-wide REB application through Stream, CanReview's online platform. The assigned REB of Record accepts within 2 business days and provides a decision within 28 business days. After receiving a study-wide approval, investigators across Canada can apply to join the study by submitting an application through Stream. The REB of Record assigned to that study will provide a decision within 5 business days. Regional and centralized staff can provide support. Flexible alternative pathways are available for jurisdictions with legislative differences.
